I am writing to express interest and support for Eternity and all other self-care products derived from petrochemicals to carry a warning label telling the consumer the product has not been tested. I suffer from Multiple Chemical Sensitivity, which means I get asthma, headaches, fatigue, dizziness from being exposed to colognes and perfumes such as Eternity. Please go forward with this project. I am deeply concerned about the amount of exposure the average citizen gets. I am also concerned about children being around these fragrances. Their immune systems are debveloping and are vulnerable.

I developed MCS from exposure to cigarette smoke, which contains many known carcinogens. Many of the chemicals in cigarette smoke are the same as ones used in the production of perfumes, colognes, and other scented products. Please do something about this onslaught of chemicals.
